Hurricane Peters Out

Dazed, bloody but still unbowed, gallant Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson is led to his corner by referee Ruby Goldstein as world champion Floyd Patterson looks on. Fight for heavyweight title was stopped

In 10th round after never-say-die challenger had taken more punishment than was good for him.—(AP Photofax.)

Champion's Own Story

'Tommy Kept Saying ... Fight, You Bum'

By FLOYD PATTERSON

NEW YORK (UP)—He didn't hurt me. He didn't mark me. But that Hurricane Jackson is as game as they come.

I wanted to win this fight for all of the people who believed in me including myself. And I thought I was winning it all the way.

You ask me, did Tommy win any rounds and I'll ask you fellows who saw the fight—did you think he won any rounds? I thought I had him all the time, but he sure wouldn't go down.

I thought he was hurt and I wouldn't have surprised me if they had stopped the fight before they did.

He had one good fighting punch. It was an uppercut, whenever he landed, I think he was stronger, too, than when I fought him the last time. Because I know I was a lot stronger myself.

Yes, he kept talking to me in the ring. He kept saying, "come on and fight, you bum, you" and I just kept right on giving him everything I had. And he kept right on taking it.

He seemed to want to keep on fighting at the finish when the referee called it off. But I think he would have gotten hurt if we had kept on going.

BELL SAVED HIM
It could have been a very short fight, too. I thought I had him knocked out in the first round. But the bell saved him.

Funny thing to me about the fight was that as it went on it seemed Jackson was easier to hit and I knew I kept hitting him more often. But he just wouldn't go down.

He kept throwing punches, too. But as the rounds went on I thought his punches became weaker and weaker.

And I kept concentrating on his head, trying to land a blow that would stagger him. One thing that impressed me about him, he is not as easy to hit in the body as he appears to be.

So that was why I kept going for his head.

Now I'm going right back into training again to fight Pete Rademacher on August 22. There won't be any vacation.

I want to be a fighting champion. And I think I started to prove tonight that I am.

Loser Wanted More

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson sang the old song of the loser when he muttered in his dressing room that "the referee had no right to stop it."

But his manager, Lipsey Breidbart, stood in a corner and snorted disgustedly.

"He didn't follow my instructions. If he had, he would have won the fight."

Would he permit Jackson to fight any more after the fearful beating he took in his abortive try to take the world heavyweight championship from Floyd Patterson?

"That's up to the fighter," said Breidbart.

Reporters were held outside Jackson's dressing room for more than 15 minutes while physicians did a patch-up job on him.

New York state athletic commission physician Dr. Ira McCowan emerged from the room and said Jackson was in good shape.

"But the referee (Ruby Goldstein) was right in stopping it," he observed.

Britons Still Welcome

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration restrictions announced Friday do not apply to citizens of the United Kingdom, other Commonwealth countries, France and the United States.

The announcement affects only immigrants from other countries coming to Canada for open placement—that is with no pre-arranged contract in most occupations. It does not affect close relatives of immigrants already in Canada.

The move is designed to slow down the flow of immigrants in anticipation of a tight labor market in the coming winter months.

Hazardous Drop

Paratroops Land On 'Bayonet' Pines

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—Thirty-four paratroopers carried out without serious injury Monday one of the most hazardous parachute jumps in the Canadian Army's peacetime history.

It wasn't planned that way. The men were to jump into a clearing but the RCAF C-119 Flying Boxcar missed the dropping zone by about a mile and more than half the paratroopers of Quebec's 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment came down in a grove of dead pine trees.

The branches of the dead pines were like bayonets and officers said it was fortunate no one was seriously injured.

As it was, one officer was bruised in the throat and one man was cut above the eye. There were other minor scratches and bruises.

About half the jumpers got hung up in the trees, the white parachutes clinging to the tops of the pines like puffs of smoke. The men lowered themselves to the ground on their emergency ropes or swung to the tree trunks, struggled out of their harness and shinnied down.

The parachute jump was part of an attack by the "enemy force." The 1st Canadian Army began training men for its three-battalion mobile striking force 10 years ago.

Tisdalle Proposal Acclaimed

Four-Way Road Network Suggested for Saanich

Province To Bear Cost

A plan to link West Saanich Road and the Trans-Canada Highway with an arterial road that would also meet the western end of the proposed east-west McKenzie Avenue belt route was suggested to Saanich's works committee last night by John Tisdalle, M.L.A.

He proposed that an entire four-directional, arterial highway scheme, through the municipality—including the long-planned McKenzie Avenue route—be completely undertaken by the provincial government.

Mr. Tisdalle said he has already submitted an outline of his north-south route proposal to government officials.

As a result of last night's informal meeting, enthusiastic councillors agreed to Mr. Tisdalle's suggestion that a meeting be arranged soon with top government officials, the reeve, works committee chairman Leslie Passmore and engineer Neville Life.

NO FAST LINK

The Saanich legislature member felt that much of the West Saanich traffic, which has no fast link with the Trans-Canada Highway before reaching the Patricia Bay Highway junction, could be funneled down Interurban Road.

To make Interurban a provincial highway, it would have to be brought up to standards similar to the Patricia Bay Highway.

The new arterial route, he said, might be connected with the loop of the proposed McKenzie Avenue western extension before it reaches the Trans-Canada Highway.

"This would give the municipality fast connections in four directions," he said.

The provincial government, he believes, may go for the scheme to alleviate the bottleneck of the Patricia Bay Highway as the only existing north-bound escape route from the city.

VERY PRACTICAL

Mr. Tisdalle said it would be "very practical" for the government to take over not only the Interurban project but also the McKenzie route, in turn reverting to Saanich the provincially-maintained portion of the West Saanich Road between the Interurban junction and the Patricia Bay Highway junction at Royal Oak.

For Mr. Tisdalle's benefit, the works committee unveiled a report of the municipal engineer outlining the municipality's proposals for the McKenzie Avenue highway.

Saanich felt originally that it could achieve no more than a $50 deal with the provincial government to build the route that would connect the Trans-Canada Highway with the Cadboro-Cordova Bays region.

THREE SECTIONS

The plan had been worked out in three sections that would have been tackled individually, moving eastward as finances allowed.

The first section, costing $668,000, would cut from Douglas Street to the Trans-Canada Highway west from McKenzie. It includes a semi-clover leaf and underpass beneath Douglas.

Mexico

Cleanup Follows 'Quake'

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexicans tackled demolition work in businesslike fashion Monday and weighed up the damage wrought on one of their chief tourist attractions by Sunday's quake.

Leaning walls were knocked over and bulldozers plowed through mountains of mortar to clear away debris.

The known death toll stood at 46. Estimates of the injured rose as high as 630.

The tourist bureau, interested in maintaining the flow of visitors, issued a statement that all was calm. It said few of the tourist sights had been damaged and that hotels, restaurants and transportation were about normal.

Damage will run into millions of dollars here, in the tourist centre of Acapulco, the Guerrero state capital of Chilpancingo and other towns.

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines ordered emergency relief for stricken areas.

Faster, Urges Dulles

LONDON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived here last night to seek allied agreement on "open skies" aerial inspection as the key to breaking the disarmament stalemate with Russia.

"Every month that passes without agreement magnifies the problem of disarmament," said Dulles.

The disarmament conference, now in its fifth month, has bogged down in discussion among the western powers on where and how to install "open skies" inspection. The allies have been trying since May 25 to frame an aerial inspection proposal to bring into the conference with Russia.

Bonner in Dark

Beer Boost Coming Up?

If Canadian brewers want a general increase in the price of beer, Attorney-General Robert Bonner has yet to hear about it directly.

"I think they'd like it, but I haven't heard about it," he said yesterday. (The Liquor Control Board is part of the attorney-general's department.)

The Dominion Brewers' Association recently sent out a booklet that said, in part:

"Tax pressures have already forced increases in beer prices in some provinces and although brewers pride themselves on holding the price line, more increases may be in store unless there is tax relief."

Victoria Milkmen Take Strike Vote

Nearly 200 milkmen start to cast their ballots today in a government-supervised strike vote.

A walkout of the employees of four milk distributors would reduce Greater Victoria's milk supply to a trickle.

Vote will be taken today among workers at Palm Dairies Ltd., and Shepherd's Dairy Ltd., and tomorrow at Northwestern and Creamery Ltd. and Island Farms Dairies Co-Operative Association.

Members of Local 464, Milk Salesmen and Dairy Employees' Union, asked for the vote after the distributors rejected a unanimous conciliation board report recommending continuation of the present six-day delivery schedule, and a $30-a-month raise for driver salesmen and $32 for plant employees.

Garden Party Surprise

The Queen Serves Hot Dogs

LONDON (AP)—The rules of protocol were shattered on Buckingham Palace's royal lawns Monday, Queen Elizabeth served hot dogs and hamburgers to members of the American Bar Association.

"I recall no time in history," said a palace spokesman, "when such typically American items were served at a palace garden party."

A palace official intimated the idea of providing red-hot and 'burgers was the Queen's and Prince Philip's.

"Her Majesty sought to provide a pleasant surprise," he said.

The lawyers broke a few rules too. They smoked all over the 42 acres of lawn—something that guests to the Queen's garden parties are not supposed to do. Some of the visitors even puffed on pipes and chewed cigars.

Almost a third of the American lawyers—here for the annual meeting of the association—wore formal clothes. Many also carried tightly-furled umbrellas. A few even sported walking sticks.

The firm of food caterers for the palace parties said they were instructed to provide no onions with the hot dogs and hamburgers.

"No reason was given," said an official.

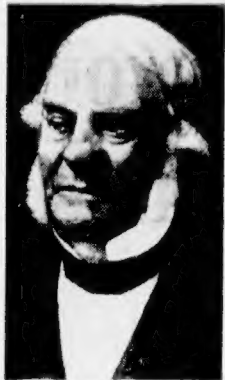

The hot dogs and hamburgers were not regulation American style. The frankfurters were about an inch and a half long and folded daintily in a bridge roll. The hamburgers were served—without onions—on a sweet bun about the size of a silver dollar.

Centennial Find

Medal Will Carry Mystery Portrait

By TED SHACKLEFORD

SIR JAMES DOUGLAS
... On silver medals.

A "new" mystery portrait of Sir James Douglas, found recently in the attic at Helmcken House, will be used on the silver Centennial medals being made at the Royal Mint for Victoria Numismatic Society.

The portrait was found while the attic was being cleared on fire department orders.

Following the recent fires, which destroyed the "Birdcage" and Government House, strict fire precautions were taken at Helmcken House, the old home of Sir James and Lady Douglas.

A fire warning system was installed and on instructions from the fire department the attic was cleared.

Amid the grime and dust the portrait was found. It was cleaned and taken to the Provincial Archives for safe-keeping.

A three-quarter left view, the portrait is finely detailed and realistic.

Biggest mystery about the painting is the identity of the painter — the painter's name, which was in the lower right hand corner, has been removed.

PAINTED OVER

It appears to have been altered since it was first painted. There is a section at the top of the head which has been painted over.

The picture is not yet on public display at the Archives. Al Klenman, president of the Victoria Numismatic Society, said last night the society decided to use a copy of the new portrait on its medallion as soon as it heard about the find.

The order for the medal has been sent to the Royal Mint in London, England, and proofs are expected in a few months.

$5 EACH

Medals will be struck in silver in medallion relief—with the design as much as three times as thick as on coins.

They are for sale for $5 each and can be ordered by mail from Mr. Klenman at 3250 Beach Drive.

On one side the inscription will be "Commemorating British Columbia's 100th Anniversary, 1858 to 1958" and under the new portrait of Sir James Douglas will be "First Governor of B.C., Sir James Douglas."

Builders' Snub to Saanich No Surprise to Reeve Ash

Reeve Arthur Ash said yesterday he was "not in the least surprised" with the report that Victoria Builders' Exchange contractors would not submit tenders for the proposed municipal hall alterations and addition.

He said the municipality has not received an official letter from the exchange on the subject.

Resolution to snub the Saanich scheme is believed to have resulted from a special meeting of contractors last Friday.

"If this report is true," the Reeve said, "I am not surprised at the decision of the contractors."

Hanna Can Stay For Six Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—Christian George Hanna, 23, has received permission from the immigration department to stay in Canada for six months "with effect from July 16." He got the order last Wednesday.

Hanna has been in Canada since he arrived as a stowaway aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudveig last December.

Hanna says he now has "settled down" to a job with a meat packing plant here.

KIRO Seattle in Six Months

Another TV Channel Will Be Seen in City

Another television channel will be seen by Victoria viewers in about six months. Permit for channel 7 has been given to radio station KIRO in Seattle.

It is last channel open under 1300 megacycles and will give Victoria more CBS programs.

Lincoln Miller, Seattle, vice-president of radio station KIRO, told the Colonist yesterday he thought it would be about six months before the new channel would be on the air.

It would depend greatly on what action radio stations KVI and KKA take over the Federal Communications Commission decision, he said.

The radio stations have been fighting a four-year legal battle for possession of the channel.

Work on the new station, to cost just under $1,000,000, with a power output of nearly 316,000 kilowatts, will start as soon as intentions of KVI and KKA are made known.

Mr. Miller said there are still a few legal points to be ironed out.

Until now CBS television network has had no channel this far west and was forced to lease its programs over channel 11.

With purchase of channel 7 it will have a direct west coast outlet.

Mr. Miller said that the programs submitted with KIRO's first application for channel 7 are outmoded and that he did not know what programs would be viewed.

When channel 7 is in operation there will be nine television channels open to viewers in this area.

Mountie Chosen

Veteran of 26 years with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Staff Sgt. Earl J. Dean, 1566 Athlone, is leaving the force to assume the post of sheriff of Prince Rupert.

A government order-in-council yesterday announced his appointment, effective Oct. 31, following the resignation of Sheriff John E. Roberts.

Mr. Warren said.

He is gradually building up a file showing the many advertisements for Canada bearing the RCMP officer in dress uniform.

His examples include the special centennial postcard showing two Mounties on duty in front of the legislative buildings and a large advertisement by the Canadian Government Travel Bureau prominently displaying an officer in dress uniform on horseback.

Already rebuffed several times by provincial government authorities and Assistant Commissioner C. W. Harvison of the RCMP E Division, Mr. Warren plans to keep battling until he receives some satisfaction on the matter.

Warren Still Battling For Red-Coated Mountie

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau commissioner George I. Warren is keeping up a running battle to have the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Victoria have the famous scarlet uniform in evidence.

"Banff, Ottawa and other cities in Canada have the red-coated Mounties on duty so why shouldn't B.C. when it pays for them," Mr. Warren asked.

"The uniform is a Canadian institution and tradition," he said. "People come here expecting to see it in evidence somewhere and are disappointed."

He suggested that a Mountie in dress uniform should be on duty at the legislative buildings because about one third of the tourists coming to Victoria visit the buildings.

"I am not asking to have a Mountie on display but only that a few should go about their duties in the famous uniform," Mr. Warren said.

He is gradually building up a file showing the many advertisements for Canada bearing the RCMP officer in dress uniform.

His examples include the special centennial postcard showing two Mounties on duty in front of the legislative buildings and a large advertisement by the Canadian Government Travel Bureau prominently displaying an officer in dress uniform on horseback.

164-Year-Old Grave Marked by Plaque

After 164 years the grave of a sailor from Captain Vancouver's ship, Discovery, has been located at Carter Bay in Finlayson Channel, about 380 miles from Victoria.

The small cairn was sunken by time, the stones disarranged. To mark the spot for all time the RCN has erected a brass plaque on a granite boulder overlooking the spot.

AB John Carter died after eating poisonous mussels during a voyage along the B.C. coastline in 1793. Other crewmen took sick but recovered when they swallowed hot salt water as an emetic.

Capt. Vancouver named the spot where the mussels were found as Poison Cove.

Egypt Defence Chief Invited to Russia

CAIRO (AP)—Marshal Georgi Zhukov has invited Egypt's defence minister Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, to visit the Soviet Union.

To the surprise of local publicists, the city is actually described as the provincial capital. But if Victoria is 253 miles long, as they say, Douglas Street would be the longest main thoroughfare of any city in the world—and that includes Los Angeles.

"Arriving on the St. Patricia from Vancouver," the author states, "we glimpsed the floating bridge and a series of locks, second only to the Panama Canal."

Chamber secretary manager Arnold Webb admitted he was stumped by the locks, but suggested that the "floating bridge" was the old Point Ellice span floating down the Inner Harbor on a barge.

"Victoria," the description goes on, "is 253 miles long and has a population of over 200,000. Coal, fish and lumber are its principal exports. On a clear day, you can see the Olympia Mountains in the state of Washington, 40 miles away.

"Victoria has a real British atmosphere, even to the helmeted 'bobbies' on traffic duty. The 'shops,' not stores, are filled with British merchandise, and afternoon tea and crumpets are served everywhere."

Argentiniens Swing Vote To Moderates

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Moderate forces backing constitutional reform and supporting provisional president Pedro Aramburu clinched a majority of seats Monday in the new Argentine constituent assembly.

With country-wide counting of the vote in Sunday's election nearly complete, the moderates seemed assured of 119 seats in the 205-member assembly.

The assembly meets Sept. 1 to consider amending the 1953 constitution in order to curb presidential powers as a means of preventing dictatorships such as that of ex-president Juan D. Peron.

In the face of defeat, two pro-Peron weeklies rushed out special editions claiming a Peron triumph and calling for a general strike to repudiate the assembly.

From his exile in Venezuela Peron called on his supporters to cast blank ballots. Twenty-five per cent, almost 2,000,000, turned up blank. Peron claimed he had the support of 75 per cent of the population.

Thirty-two parties took part. The largest vote for any single one went to the Popular Radicals. They took more than 25 per cent. Other moderate parties, backing constitutional reform and Aramburu policies, won substantial votes.

Too High a Price

ONE of the most serious train wrecks in the history of Canadian railroads occurred 30 miles east of Winnipeg on Sunday because "two small boys" tampered with an unlocked switch shortly before the Canadian National Railway flyer, the Continental, was due. As a result four score of individuals were injured, some critically; eight of the aluminum coaches of the passenger express were derailed; and only through the mercy of Providence the fantastic list of fatalities which could have emerged from the wreck of a train going at 60 miles an hour was averted. As matters stand the damage is serious enough. Some 86 persons were injured, two critically, according to early reports.

If this incident of irresponsible mischief stood alone it would still be a serious matter. Unfortunately there is a growing record that unwatched children of all ages are being allowed to do much what they like through the neglect of their parents or others responsible for them. In Victoria it is night-riding in hot-rods and jalopies, elsewhere it may be something else; but everywhere, it seems, the same disregard of responsible parentage is producing disastrous lifelong results. It is true that train wrecks do not happen every day, and it may be a decade before there is another from any similar cause. This one, however, need not have happened; there is the irony.

The principal victims in the Nourse, Man., derailing happened to be immigrants, and this must have been a strange introduction to the new land of their adoption. It will not lessen, but heighten, their sense of injury when they understand that the wreck was caused by a juvenile "prank." Rail switches are left locked at most times, but the locks are released when the switches have to be adjusted for anticipated arrivals. While evidence in the wreck has yet to be heard before an inquiry, it would appear possible that the youngsters slipped into the railway yard shortly before the time the express was due, and started emulating something they may have seen on television or in movies.

Children of that age are not responsible in the eyes of the law. It is becoming an unfortunate circumstance, however, that in many instances apart from this wreck, their parents do not prove themselves any better. From a train wreck which only for luck could have been a national disaster to the slightest and least noted example of irresponsible mischief, the toll is a continual one. Something will have to be done about it, for this kind of nonsense cannot be allowed to go on. The smallest loss in the CNR derailment will be the monetary one, but even that must be substantial—aluminum trains are not acquired without cost.

On human as well as other terms, parental neglect is costing this nation a pretty penny. Insofar as it contributes to the spreading of irresponsibility among young people and encourages indiscipline which may wreck individual lives in later years, that is too high a price to pay for complacency and "peace in the family." In every home and in every community, Canadians will have to come to grips with this situation, and apply the remedy. There is one, under everyone's own roof-tree.

Atomic Power for Ships

IT was a foregone conclusion that Great Britain would apply her highly developed nuclear knowledge and superb engineering skill in a widening area for industrial, maritime and other uses of atomic energy. The most recent decision at Westminster concerning shipping has been one to lay plans immediately for the projection of marine power plants in several prototypes. One will be an atomic energy submarine, not patterned after the successful American Nautilus but to be begun from scratch from British designs and making use of the United Kingdom's special knowledge in the nuclear field. That, of course, is a governmental undertaking.

A larger, and far-reaching, project has been agreed between the British government and private shipbuilding and engineering firms to proceed with plans for the first atomic power tanker. Here will come a real test of the feasibility of nuclear energy for the ordinary needs of commercial shipping. Oil tankers today are large and heavy. If nuclear energy converted to steam turbine propulsion can be adapted economically to maritime use it would revolutionize existing shipping. The initial installation costs would be high, but the tremendous saving in operation might overtake that in the first few years of a vessel's life.

The projected tanker will be the joint product of several of the leading engineering and shipbuilding firms in the United Kingdom. If the prototype proves successful, this could lead to a wholly new industry; one for whose products there would be a ready market throughout the world. Great Britain's initial experiment with industrial power from atomic furnaces, meanwhile, has proved very successful and is being greatly expanded.

'You Big Chickens'

THE above is the title of a letter received the other day containing a severe lecture from a juvenile who represents himself as a member of the National Youth Club. It is grossly impertinent, arrogant and tauntingly insulting to all the grown-up people of Victoria. We are, of course, thoroughly accustomed to receiving letters of that sort, as are newspapers everywhere. Nevertheless this one made a deep impression, though not in the way the author intended.

From the contents of the letter and the mode of expression it may be taken that the writer is a youth in his middle or late teens; and therefore—the school leaving age being what it is—one may assume that by a process of promotion from year to year he reached the higher grades and is entitled to regard himself as an educated person by accepted standards. Yet disregarding the rules of punctuation, basic grammar and spelling, the communication which he submits as suitable for publication bears the marks of illiteracy.

In it he accuses the adult population of "doing nothing for Victoria's kids." It is letters such as this and others received not infrequently from presumptuous and dictatorial juveniles which provoke the thought that the community may be doing for some of them far more than they deserve—and at a punishing price in taxes. They leave one wondering, also, whether in passing pupils who so obviously have not applied themselves to their studies or profited from their opportunities the schools are giving the adults value for their hard-earned money and sacrifices.

Interpreting the News

Hungary's Trials Continue

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Correspondent

COMMUNIST Hungary is in the grip of an intensifying reign of terror. Men in all walks of life are being arrested in night raids as suspected counter-revolutionaries.

Communist leaders are saying in speeches that they expect a campaign of sabotage to break out soon. This campaign, they say, will be timed to start before the United Nations General Assembly meets in September to consider a report by a special commission on the atrocities committed during the revolt of last autumn.

Reports reaching Vienna and other capitals indicate that the entire internal situation is in turmoil. There appears to be serious dimension between the secret police and the army. Factional disputes are still in progress in the Communist Party itself.

Bela Blasko, minister of interior, rather than Premier Janos Kadar, seems to be directing the campaign of terror.

Blasko is in charge of the secret police and the Red militia.

He disclosed in a speech at the Communist party congress in June that a campaign to "unmask counter-revolutionary elements in the army is under way."

There is some suspicion that Blasko is trying to gain control of the army and put himself in a position where he, not Kadar, would be Hungary's real leader.

The arrests of counter-revolutionary suspects and the purge in the army are being carried out while Red courts are still sentencing men, women and teen-aged boys to prison or to death for complicity in the October revolt.

Interior Minister Blasko said in a speech recently that counter-revolutionaries planned a campaign of sabotage to show the UN that "there is still disorder in Hungary and that the population does not support the Communist government."

Next day, Minister of State Gyorgy Maros said that the government had arrested several hundred counter-revolutionaries who planned a revolt.

It is expected that the UN assembly will meet about Sept. 10 to consider the report on atrocities. This will be a special session, in advance of the annual meeting set for Sept. 17.

There is no real indication that any big outbreak in Hungary is likely, or even possible at this time.

The Hungarian Reds seem to feel that they must emphasize plotting by "counter-revolutionaries" to justify their reign of terror.

It is reported that university professors, school teachers, writers, lawyers and students are among the hundreds of men being rounded up in night raids by secret police and held without trial.

Canadian Notebook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

III

QUEBEC is a strange mixture of beauty, squalor and enterprise. It has an other-worldliness in strange contrast to big industrial developments which everyone talks about. There is little urgency about anything. The squalor would shame some of the worst slums of Liverpool or Cardiff. Yet here one is conscious of the blending of the old world and the new. Here are two Canada's side-by-side.

As I walked down the street one of those gigantic American cars with bared teeth and fabulous eyeballs glided past with three nuns sitting in the back seat. A few moments later a rather tattered priest walked past me followed by a pack of American tourists, and within a couple of minutes I was asked for the first and only time in Canada for the price of a cup of coffee by a poor old tramp who had found life too much for him.

A business man to whom I had an introduction spoke only of the big industrial expansion which had hit Quebec province. He admitted the blending of old and new, the difficulty of instilling a sense of urgency, but he thought that perhaps it was good for Canada as a whole.

"Perhaps I am not the one to say it," he added, "but we have values here which have been mislaid in some parts of Canada. Maybe we are a useful bit of heaven in the land. We have learned a lot about tolerance and co-operation—something the whole world needs to understand. Come back and try to understand Quebec when you have seen the rest of Canada. Meanwhile, enjoy it."

I did. Sometime perhaps I will understand it. But it was good to pass that way.

Came the first introduction to Canadian rail travel. It is recorded at once that it is superior to anything in Europe. It should be, of course, because it is vastly more expensive—but Canada has every reason to be proud of its railways and if I may jump the continent in a sentence it was echoed by an American who sat next to me in The Canadian as we neared Vancouver. "There is no train like this in the world—and boy have I traveled during the last ten years!"

I will gladly second the motion, and there was some motion coming down from Revelstoke. Head cracked twice against the bunk during the night. But we were late, and the engineer was in a rollicking mood.

Conversation on the train helped to underline the excellent work done by Victoria's publicity experts. One gathered that one was on the way to an earthly paradise—but there were fibes of course. A gentleman wanted to know how I had got my entry permit. He thought no one was admitted to Vancouver Island under the age of 70. "Delightful place of course—but gee, is it stuffy," said another.

Another comedian, at breakfast of all times, told me of a Toronto go-getter who was informed that his great-aunt had died in Victoria. "Isn't that sad," he commented. "I wonder how were they able to tell?"

No doubt Victoria thrives on such libels. Indeed I notice that the Chamber of Commerce actually distributes them in the form of place mats embellished with cartoons founded on fiction. It at least emphasizes one of the greatest of all British virtues—the ability to laugh at oneself and to exaggerate national foibles. Let the chamber be praised for dealing so blatantly in the world's rarest commodity—humor.

In fact, of course, Victoria has gone frightfully modern. Sewers and things, scramble lights, water beetles to Port Angeles and miniature liners to Vancouver. Motor scooters mingle with the flashiest cars and those ancient but rugged British work horses which are the joy of their owners, a credit to British car manufacturers but which undoubtedly would be banned in the streets of Montreal.

I like the rugged acceptance of things as they are in Victoria. If you cry poverty there will be friends to echo it; if you wish to keep up with the Joneses there is no lack of opportunity; but if you wish to be yourself you can be. The most fabulous life I was told about Victoria was that it perpetuated the Old English Caste system which perished many decades ago in Britain. Nowhere, I suspect, is there a more benevolent social democracy. Obviously the wrong people have got the money, but things were ever thus. It has never been seriously disputed by anyone without money. Anyway it is a confounded bore to have to earn a living.

But if anyone can show me a place with warmer hospitality I would be surprised indeed. One is conscious of shops happy to serve you, bus operators who bid you welcome and suffer strangers gladly, motorists who do not regard pedestrians as fair game and—whisper it—Canadians who take a fiendish delight in changing American dollars less 5 per cent.

Bouquet: To the postmaster-general for providing a mail chaise for motorists at the GPO.

Brickbat: For the absence of a route map in Victoria's bus timetables.

"What do you suppose he means this time?"

Reports from Ottawa

THE government has started carving up C. D. Howe's former power empire by transferring responsibility for Trans-Canada Airlines to Transport Minister George Hees. And that is only a start.

Under the Liberal regime the government comprised 84 departments and divisions. One quarter of them—21 in all—called Howe boss. Among other things, he sold wheat, patent rights, insurance, air transportation and Crown assets. He made and sold rubber, mined and sold uranium, and built pipelines. He ran the atomic program and a tugboat company, supported the price of Newfoundland, fish, operated arsenals, built military camps, blessed government scientific research and bought just about everything the armed forces needed.

Some of the enterprises under his wing were rather anomalous activities. TCA, for example, belongs nowhere but under the Transport Department. The Newfoundland Fisheries Board could well fit into the Department of Fisheries. Eldorado Mining & Refining is a logical appendage of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys. There is no reason why Eldorado Aviation Ltd. and Northern Transportation Co., both subsidiaries of Eldorado Mining, should not find a natural home in the Department of Transport, along with another Howe creation, Northern Ontario Pipeline Corp. And Defence Construction Ltd. could be absorbed in the Department of Public Works.

The break-up of Howe's empire is likely to go much farther than the mere transfer of some of his former organizations to other departments. For one thing, I'm told there is a very good chance that Howe's "other department," Defence Production, will be downgraded by the transfer of some of its most important functions to the Defence Department.

For instance, navy sources anticipate that the shipbuilding branch of DDP will be moved bodily into the naval branch of the Defence Department. If this plan is followed, logically the aircraft division of DDP would go to the RCAF.

The navy has long wanted to get control of the building of its ships away from DDP because of a feeling that the navy's interests were being sacrificed to those of the shipbuilding industry; that Howe simply used the navy as a crutch for the shipyards. But neither of the last two Liberal defence ministers, Brooke Claxton and Ralph Campney, could have successfully opposed Howe on this matter, even if they dared to try.

The navy could have had its 14 new destroyer escorts and 15 minesweepers built in British yards for much less money than it cost to build them in Canada. This is obvious from the fact that the 2,800-ton destroyer escorts cost an average of $23,000,000 each, whereas the 19,000-ton aircraft carrier Bonaventure, built in Belfast, cost only $26,500,000.

Howe's argument was that the country needs a shipbuilding industry in case of war, and that the program provided work for Canadians. In a sense, the $400,000,000 spent on destroyer escorts and minesweepers was a gigantic dose for the shipyard industry and workers.

Similar reasoning also lay behind the development and manufacture of jet fighters for the RCAF.

The new government, seeking ways to cut defence spending and reduce taxes, is not likely to follow this line of thinking in filling the services' future needs, whether they be ships for the navy, planes for the air force or guns for the army.

On the Record

Modernity

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

WE are in a new era midwifed by two wars in one generation. The managerial revolution is here—and dawning in Russia, too—which has made it necessary to get rid of the remnants of the "old-fashioned doctrinaire" Bolsheviks. The "dictatorship of the proletariat" is as outmoded as the "dictatorship of the bourgeoisie" which Nikita Khrushchev continues to refer to along with the "monopoly capitalists," apparently out of pure habit.

The real dictatorship is collective and the emerging dictators are big government bureaucracy, the bosses of big labor, the managers (not the owners) of big businesses, the technological scientists and planners, and the trained public-opinion conditioners who serve them and can be relied on to convince us that we are all perfectly free and that the traditional American way has only been furnished up a bit.

Those with nostalgia will furnish their homes (mortgaged to the government) with early American antiques with a government tax attached to the purchase price. But however they choose to surround themselves with reminders of the epoch of Jefferson and the founding fathers, their children won't imbibe even a notion of Jefferson's political philosophy.

They won't be familiarized even with the idea that the best government is the one that governs least. They don't hear about that even now. It is a really radical (and subversive) idea that, if widely held, might lead to determination to reduce the powers of government to near zero.

When the powers of government and the forces that instinctively ally themselves with power pass a certain point it is all but impossible to check them. It is in the nature of power that those who exercise it, whether as individuals or as an occupational collectivity, never voluntarily relinquish it but persistently struggle to extend it.

In the modern world, the whole of society, especially in its economic expressions, becomes geared to those powers. Although there are internal struggles between the various collectives of power-wielders, they are in effective collusion. Each needs the other, and the whole system is an integration. This is "modernity."

Highland Ancestry

YOU would never guess from his surname that John D. Diefenbaker comes from good Highland stock. His father was Dutch, but on the maternal side he is descended from a Bannerman who emigrated from Sutherland in 1813 and a Campbell who reached Canada from Argyllshire.

Join the names together and, of course, a link stretches back from Canada's Tory prime minister to that great Liberal Prime Minister of Britain, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

Canada's new prime minister is very proud of the connection. His mother, who is still alive, was Mary Florence Bannerman, who married a Dutch settler. She recalls that her father and mother spoke nothing but Gaelic at their home in Red River settlement.

Mr. Diefenbaker hopes to go north to see where his Highland ancestors lived on a future visit to this country.

Congenital Stumblebums

By GREGORY CLARK

IN the cracks and crevices of the rock around my summer cottage I have planted various types of that little plant known as hen and chickens.

It forms pretty patterns—clinging tenaciously in the rock. My family and friends have been very careful year after year not to step on the clusters of small green stars; which is no mean feat in daylight, let alone in the dark.

But I have a friend who, in the course of one afternoon's visit, can manage to step on half a dozen clusters. He can stumble onto some that are secreted in almost vertical fissures in the rock. He is the only one, as far as I can recall, who has ever crushed any of them. And he almost always does, when he drops around.

The other afternoon he called at the cottage and we were out at the time. He came in, saw the battery radio sitting on the table and turned it on. He left. Three hours later, we returned and found the radio going, but very faintly. The battery was just about done for. There was also a note from our friend, saying he would drop around later.

I went out and inspected my hen and chickens. Sure enough, one of the prize patches had a big fat footprint squashed on it.

It seems to me clumsiness is not equally apportioned in this world. Certain people appear to have far more than their share. They stumble about, knocking things over; picking things up and breaking them; poking their fingers through screens, colliding with fragile veranda tables and scattering the tea and sandwiches in all directions. If you lend them a flashlight, they bring it home in pieces. They can't pass the peanuts without spilling them. They are congenital stumblebums.

If clumsiness were evenly distributed amongst us we could all share in the petty disasters of this life and have some compassion for one another. But some of us are just oafs and oafesses.

The sad part of this curious matter is that they never seem to come to any personal grief or damage themselves. You rarely see them with bandaged fingers, or skinned knuckles or noses. We careful ones hobble about with sprained ankles on our holidays, or lie up with poison ivy blisters.

Not the stumblebums. They go happily on their way. Even mosquitoes don't seem to bite them.

Letters to the Editor

The Police Side

Ald. J. Donald Smith and many others are asking for answers to the recent tragic accident involving four teenage boys. May 1 as the wife of a policeman and as an ex-policewoman be permitted to give my explanations.

First, why chase a bunch of little boys? How in heaven's name were the police to know that they were little boys? And if they had been bigger boys, with a criminal record perhaps, wouldn't the general opinion have been, "Oh well, they got what they deserved?"

Second, why not wait until the car had been abandoned? What if this car had been allowed to go on and kill some innocent person (and innocent persons are about at 4 a.m., contrary to popular belief), what then?

The general cry would have been: What were the police doing? What are we paying taxes for?

Third, was that rate of speed necessary? Surely people can realize that the speed is determined by the pursued rather than the pursuer, and has no one stopped to think that 10 feet of earth and some wonderful driving stopped this incident from becoming a double tragedy?

How I envy women married to men in jobs not in the public eye, and how I pity policemen's wives who doubtless like myself have stayed and will continue to stay awake nights wondering if "our boys" will come home safe.

My own police experience with the general public was those that condemned the police and their methods were those that screamed loudest for a policeman when in trouble.

My deepest sympathy to the parents of these boys, but my sympathy also goes to the policemen involved, because they, too, have memories.

GWEN STONE.

Mind Over Matter

Commenting on remarks of a "space expert" who has said that "trips round the moon are on the way," Mr. Tom Taylor asks: "Why can't these clever blokes turn their talents to the discovery of a cure for, say, arthritis?"

A great deal has been discovered about the cause and cure of arthritis and many other common ills in the last few years. Evidence is steadily accumulating which supports the view that the victims of arthritis, etc., are afflicted because they were so handled in childhood that they cannot adjust happily to life.

The Sunday Graphic of July 7 gives prominence to the belief of Sir Henegave Ogilvie, consultant surgeon to Guy's Hospital, "He is convinced that a cheerful state of mind can by itself cure certain diseases." His experience leads him to think that there is much to be said for the view that "the happy man never gets cancer." A similar outlook is maintained by many other observers both medical and lay.

The Colonist's recent article on Selye's work on "stress" ties in with Sir Henegave's remarks. Surely "stress" is due to unhappiness — to not seeing life as fascinating and one's fellows as one's equals.

M. N. SHERMAN.

2901 Seaview Road, Victoria, B.C.

Grossly Unfair

Re flat rate business tax: It is noticed in your issue of July 26 that the Victoria city council has approved a recommendation that a business tax be levied on a flat rate, instead of a classification and graduation basis.

The small city firms and businesses are aware that the flat-rate system would work to their detriment. Our M.L.A., Ald. Don Smith, has already made a study of how the business tax was assessed in other cities across Canada, and found that the large eastern cities, Toronto and Montreal, have implemented a business tax on a classification and graduation basis.

It will therefore be a gross miscarriage of justice if the city council approves the flat-rate basis.

CHRIS COLLINS.

Chris' Cafe, 1033 Cook Street, Victoria, B.C.

Lacking Foresight

Saanich has about 35,000 population, enough for a city. Oak Bay about 35,000, enough for a town. A certain element in each area is jealous of village autonomy, but insufficiently independent in spirit, or aware of their responsibilities to provide a single unit of a public hospital within their boundaries.

Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals reached present dimensions during many years when most population was in Victoria city, and residents were paying their own hospital bills.

If Victoria dispenses with its garbage wharf, will Oak Bay build its own adjacent to Beach Drive? Or follow the trench and cover method within its own boundaries? A distribution system out in the straits should return a fair proportion of garbage to Oak Bay beaches.

If a handful of men with parochial mind and background had the judgment and foresight modern conditions require, they would have agitated within Victoria civic circles to have the boundaries set up by the pioneers extended to Oak Bay, Cadboro Bay and northward into Saanich, on a basis of zonal taxes until provision of full services justified tax assessments equal to those prevailing in the older parts of the city.

We have full sympathy for these people, their spirit of independence notwithstanding small means, their desire for a little breathing space, semi-rural living with neighbors not too close, and attachment for an old homestead; but they must realize that they cannot, should not try to stem the tide of modernization and swelling population. To perpetuate the conditions they most desire, they will just have to pull up roots and set them in elsewhere.

U.K. Hails Malaya's Freedom

LONDON (UP) — The House of Lords hailed the new-born Malayan Federation yesterday.

Moving the second reading of the Malayan Independence Bill, the Earl of Home, Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, said the new federation was "yet another example—and we have seen a number in recent years—of how the colonial policy of the United Kingdom brings countries to full self-government and to a point where they assume full responsibility as independent nations."

Lord Ogmore added: "I hope this will afford a complete answer to allegations about colonialism we hear both in the UN and elsewhere."

Little Boys Admit Derailment Blame

WINNIPEG (UP) — Two V-pattern along the embankment of a railroad worker yesterday confessed to tampering with the switch, while the others remained derailed the CNR Continental express at high speed 36 miles east of here Sunday.

The boys, aged 7 and 9, were questioned by RCMP and railway officials shortly after eye witnesses reported that two boys were seen in the vicinity of the switch just before the pile-up which injured 86 persons, five of them seriously.

Damage to the coaches, which cost over $130,000 each, was estimated up to $1,000,000.

The brothers admitted tampering with the switch, which apparently was not locked. The evidence was then turned over to juvenile court officials here to decide what action, if any, would be taken against them.

Sixteen cars of the Continental, which was five hours behind schedule on the westbound run from Montreal to Vancouver, were flung off the tracks and spreadeagled in a lifted the handle of the switch but did not turn it to direct the train onto the siding.

The two-unit diesel and the mail car immediately behind passed over the open switch, but the vibration caused the switch to turn, shunting the following cars onto the siding at 60 miles an hour.

The train was carrying 400 passengers. Thirty of the injured required hospitalization, but most were released after treatment. One small girl was thrown out of the window by the impact, but received only superficial injuries. The five seriously hurt were: Gilbert Cook, 64, Gypsumville, Ont.; Mrs. Sharon Fedi, 29, Exeter, Ont.; Jean McLaughlin, 22, Cremona, Ont.; Mrs. Stella Yarmowick, Regina, Sask.; Mrs. Bertha Pronyk, Toronto.

CNR investigators questioned a number of youths before the two brothers made their admission. A spokesman for the railway said they apparently

Puts Market

In Old Drums

New York (UP) — Railroad

shares which had a bid for week suffered their widest decline since Feb. 11, the day before the market as a whole set its 1957

low.

The rail break was a big disappointment to those who had antici-ated a rise under the leadership of the carriers. It reflected estimates that the rails even with a freight rate increase could not duplicate their 1956 earnings.

Industrials had several much wider losses than the rails. Blue chips like Du Pont, Gulf Oil, International Paper, Lukens Steel,

National Lead, Pfizer, Pittston, and Safeway Stores lost 2 to 3 points.

Losses Predominate

TORONTO (CP) — Amid the slowest trading of the year, the stock market suffered its sharpest decline in five months.

Goodyear Tire, Royal Bank,

trading ex-dividend, Union Gas,

Abitibi, B-A Oil, Stelco and International Petroleum lost heavily.

Although the western oil index had a sharp drop, there were a few strong gains. Canadian Export Gains 70 cents at $3.20, and Canada Oil Lands was up 20 cents to $3.70. A few others added

15 cents.

Senior issues had losses ranging to two points, led by Pacific at $2.25. Merrill and Home R were each off a point. Security, Energy, and Union Gas lost 25 to 35

cents.

Base Metals Recede

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market closed at a sharply lower level following light industrial trading.

Among base metals, International

Nickel fell 1 1/2 to $2 1/2, and Aluminum slipped a point to 46.

Steel of Canada marked the major movement in its division, dropping a point to 57.

In utilities, Shawinigan lost 2 points at $5 1/2, while Power Corporation fell 1 1/2 to 74 and B.C.

Power dipped 1/2 to 50.

Inter-Provincial Pipe Lines

gained a point at 51, but Trans-

Mountain was down 1/2 to 103, and in the refining group B-A lost 1 1/2 at 54 1/2, while International

Petroleum eased 1/2 to 54 1/2.

In newsprint, Powell River lost

1/2 to 29.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some buy-

but scattered moisture in the prairie grain belt.

Most of the activity was in

Wild Teen-Agers Drink, Pet, Fight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — "Stripped of all inhibitions" teen-agers petted, necked, and poured down whisky and beer in a theatre balcony during a rock 'n' roll stage show, police reported yesterday.

The weekend saturnalia at the Garfield Theatre here touched off plans in the city attorney's office to ban all rock 'n' roll shows in Milwaukee.

Knife fights broke out and youngsters staged trampling dances in the aisles at the height of the Saturday night show, officials said.

BEER, WHISKY BOTTLES

Twenty-nine persons were arrested and police collected baskets full of empty whisky and beer bottles after the appearance of rock 'n' roll performers and a showing of the movie "Calypso Heat Wave."

Assistant city attorney Robert Anderson said "we've been through all dance crazes from Charleston to jitterbug, but never have been affected like that."

"Those kids just lost all their inhibitions and sense of moral responsibility. Four girls even solicited a member of our office staff outside the theatre."

FLAGRANT ABUSE

"Somebody might have been killed," Anderson said, "and there was flagrant abuse of a city ordinance against smoking in the building which could have started a disastrous fire."

Earl Tetting, a theatre official, told Sullivan "we're purely catering to the desires of the people for entertainment."

Anderson said people living around the theatre called his office with numerous complaints "of rowdiness, brawling and drinking."

PATROL WAGON NEAR

"Eight policemen and a sergeant had to be stationed in the theatre," Anderson said, "and a patrol wagon was kept parked outside at all times during the show."

Addition of 1,200,000 participating preferred shares has been authorized by shareholders of Inland Cement Co. Ltd. of Edmonton which requires new funds to implement the acquisition of Saskatchewan Cement Company.

Rock 'n' Roll Ban Imposed in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — The government yesterday imposed a nation-wide ban on rock 'n' roll music and dancing on grounds it is "harmful" to the health and morals of teen-agers.

Penalties will be imposed for violations.

'Spies' Anger Czechs

VIENNA (UP) — Communist Czechoslovakia yesterday accused the US air force of "severe violations" of Czech airspace to spy on Czech installations. A strongly worded note delivered to the US embassy in Prague by the Czech foreign ministry claimed that US planes flew deep into Czech territory for 28 minutes on July 27 and ignored warning signals from Czech planes trying to turn them back. The foreign ministry, according to the detail of the note broadcast by radio Prague, considered the 28-minute flight and the "deep penetration" of the planes "clear evidence for espionage." It complained that this was the second time US air force planes had entered Czech airspace and called them "severe violations of Czech territory."

Tomorrow
Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited will introduce two great new motor fuels

the team that satisfies the octane needs of every make of car

Today's engines have the highest horsepower, the highest compression ratios in history. And the trend is toward still further increases.

Anticipating the need for higher grades of motor fuel, Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited will tomorrow introduce two brand new gasolines.

You can choose the gasoline that will give you the finest performance your car can deliver — the gasoline which automatically supplies the full octane value your car requires for every driving situation.

The combustion energy in these great new Shell motor fuels gives you an added bonus, too. When you're cruising, their reserve energy is converted to extra miles in every tankful.

And these benefits are always yours, because both gasolines contain TCP*. This patented additive neutralizes the effect of harmful deposits that cause loss of power in your engine. Thus both gasolines assure you the continued peak performance and economy your engine was built to deliver.

For a new experience in motoring, see your Shell dealer tomorrow.

After the Battle

Alf Pengelly, who won epic battle with 45-pound salmon Sunday, points to spot where his hook snagged after fish had taken a swipe at small spoon. It set up terrific two-hour struggle which was terminated only when fishing partner Jim Fulton waded waist deep into water to do netting. Fish was entered in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest, giving Pengelly lead in spring salmon division. See story alongside. — (Photo by Stan Cummer.)

Vancouver Moose Wins B.C. Crown

Vancouver Moose, runners-up to Victoria All-Stars last year, won the B.C. Babe Ruth baseball championship Sunday with a 5-3 victory over North Vancouver, and will represent the province in the regional play-offs at Kellogg, Idaho, early in August.

Victoria had to settle for third place in the Optimist Club-sponsored tourney, blanking Vancouver Optimists, 5-0, on one-hit pitching by Bob Eddy Sunday in the first game of the doubleheader at Royal Athletic park.

Doug Foster, who threw a one-hitter in leading the Moose to their first tournament victory, 18-0, over Youbou, was the star again Sunday. Foster gave up seven hits in besting Terry Dunn in a five-inning duel. Difference in the clubs proved to be the fielding, as well.

Kinsmen Win Torrid Race; Dowell's Take Colt Final

Kinsmen captured the American Little League's second-half championship Sunday with an 11-6 trouncing of Lions, ending the highest title race in the four-year history of the four-team league.

Only two games separated the four clubs at the finish and final-day developments could have left all four teams in a first-place deadlock.

But Kinsmen made sure of the title with a seven-run outburst in the bottom of the fifth frame while Bob McLaren was pitching steadily. Tugtles forced a share of second place by downing Autometrics, 11-4, in the other game Sunday.

Five Cs Boost Lead In City Cricket Loop

Five Cs boosted their lead in the Victoria and District Cricket Association table to six points Sunday by scoring an eight-wicket victory over Albions at Beacon Hill Park.

Jim Richards led the bowlers by capturing seven wickets for 27 runs while Ken Greenwood (37), Gil Ferriera (33) and Alan Griffin (12 not out) carried the batting load.

In matches on Sunday, Cowichan edged Oak Bay by one run at Windsor Park with Clarke

Pengelly Lands 45-Pounder After Epic Battle

He did it the hard way, but Alf Pengelly, 3915 Carey Road, is the new leader in the spring salmon division of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Fishing Sunday in Sansum Bay, Pengelly snagged a 45-pound salmon and it took two hours of worrisome, exciting action before fishing partner Jim Fulton, 1989 Hampshire Road, netted the big fellow while standing waist deep in water just off the Salt Spring Island shore.

Pengelly was using a light rod and small reel and fishing a No. 4 Tom Mack spoon behind a small flasher and six ounces of weight when the salmon, probably swiping at what he thought was a minnow, drove the small hook into its side about a foot from the tail. It was, understandably, quite a handful for Pengelly and his inadequate, for that size of a fish, outfit. Complicating matters still more was the fact that there was only 300 feet of line on the reel.

It was quite a battle. The fish struck at approximately 10 and it was a good two hours later before it was in the net. In that hectic 120 minutes or more, Pengelly and Fulton were towed back and forth across Sansum Narrows three times.

BOAT BEACHED
With the battle looking more and more like a stalemate, it was decided to beach the boat on Salt Spring Island on the third visit. Pengelly played his fish from the shore while Fulton waded waist deep into the water and finally got into position to get the big fellow into the net.

Taken to Duncan to be entered in the King Fisherman Contest, the fish tipped the scales at slightly more than 45 pounds although it was then three hours after it had been caught.

As far as is known it is the biggest salmon caught so far this year in Vancouver Island waters. Because it was caught south of Qualicum Bay, it is eligible for the spring salmon division of the King Fisherman Contest. Unfortunately, Pengelly is not a Colonist subscriber and can only win the spring salmon trophy if his fish remains the highest in its division. The merchandise prize of a 51-inch kitchen unit, donated by W. R. Menzies & Co. Ltd. will go to the Colonist subscriber who lands the biggest spring salmon. Leading at the moment is Mrs. Florence Clark of Sooke, who weighed a 44-pounder in June.

Pengelly's fish is the fifth of more than 40 pounds entered so far in the spring salmon division of the Colonist contest.

Amazing Tire Secret

the only tire that...
CHANGES ITS TREAD AUTOMATICALLY

GO! As you're riding along the highway, the new Dunlop Gold Seal tread changes automatically to a traction tread—pops up into hundreds of tiny plastic sections that seize hold of the road for a moment's stop.

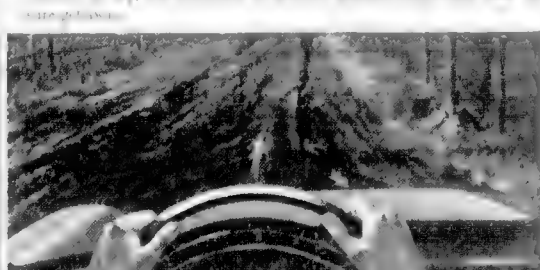

STOP! Instantly! Your foot goes to the brake—and instantly, your Gold Seal tread changes automatically to a traction tread—pops up into hundreds of tiny plastic sections that seize hold of the road for a moment's stop.

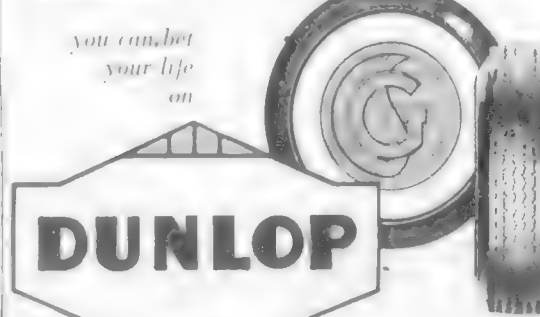

CORNER! And the Gold Seal tread changes again—brings into play its unique plastic "corner bars" that end the vicious wear and tear of cornering.

ACCELERATE! As you change to gear—your tread on the gas—and again the Gold Seal tread changes to a traction tread. On pavement, too, wet weather or dry, the tread of Dunlop Gold Seal tires really holds for extra grip.

REDUCES STEERING FATIGUE! When you leave the highway, you'll find that your Gold Seal tires take the turns. The reason? New rubber compounds are smooth, resilient and changing wheel flatter, and give steady steering. Least you'll save Gold Seal Tires for your new car. Order them when you need replacements.

Braided Date Cake Worth the Trouble

It seems almost incredible it was away back on July 5 that we featured in this space a recipe for making fancy rolls and breads. I remember asking those interested in this fascinating form of baking to clip said recipe so that one day we'd carry on with some of the many delights it can be used for. I wonder if you did save it—I do hope so. If not, let me know and I'll run it again but not this morning as there's so much to talk about.

So, assuming you can lay your hands on the clipped recipe let us proceed. Incidentally, it's equally suitable for morning coffee or an afternoon tea party and would also make a welcome addition to any picnic basket.

BRAIDED DATE CAKE

(makes 2 cakes)
Make up the Sweet Dough recipe. And while it is rising combine the following ingredients in a saucepan: 1½ cups pitted dates; ½ cup lightly packed brown sugar; 1 cup water; ½ cup chopped nuts; 1½ tablespoons lemon juice.

Bring to the boil over medium heat, stirring constantly.

and continue boiling until mixture is thick enough to spread. Cool this filling.

Divide the prepared Sweet Dough in half. Roll each half into a 16 by 8 inch rectangle. Spread half the filling down the centre third of each rectangle. Cut 15 strips in dough along each side of filling, making these strips exactly the same width, about one inch. Scissors and a foot-rule do a good job.

Fold strips at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side. In other words, you use a form of simple braiding—get it? Place on greased baking sheets and brush lightly with butter or margarine. Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until double in bulk—about 1 hour.

Before putting in oven brush with an egg yolk beaten with 2 tablespoons milk. Sprinkle with a combination of 2 table-spoons butter; 2 tablespoons sugar; ¼ cup sifted all purpose flour; ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 35 minutes.

P.S.—A fairly new arrival just called. Instead of making her braided cakes straight, as just described, she forms hers into a ring, placing one end in the other and sealing together firmly. Rather like a whirling dervish in its mouth!

Well that was rather a wordy recipe I'm afraid but for special occasions it is well worth the trouble

Here's a little idea which will give any such cake an up-lift. Add a little grated lemon peel to the butter and sugar in the bottom of the pan. Arrange apricot halves and chopped walnuts on top. Cover with spice cake or gingerbread batter made from your own recipe or from a mix and bake as usual.

UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

This is a very refreshing and wholesome drink. Just mix sweetened apricot purée with a little lemon juice and salt and gradually stir into cold milk. Serve icy cold in tall glasses garnished with mint leaves.

APRICOT FLIP

TRICK OF THE DAY

I believe this will amuse you as much as it does me though some of you may know it. Miss M. S. was telling me that she found an infallible cure for sleeplessness was to heat one or two ounces of milk, pour it into a glass and drink it slowly. She said: "I couldn't resist commenting it would only do for those sleeping pills."

King May Marry Again

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — "You can be sure," one Jordan politically popular marriage is the next queen of Jordan may danian official said. "that she in the offering, especially one that he just what the political does has a sense of responsibility and will produce a male heir to the throne ordered for the king of that a feeling of duty as far as the throne."

Reliable sources here at the U.N. say the leading candidate is a dark Arab beauty with a blond line full of the bedouin nobles who saved the king's throne last spring.

The remark is an implied criticism of the king's first wife, Dina who packed up and went home to mother-in-law where she is now.

Fringe, Fur Favored By Italians

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — Fringes, fox furs and feathers just like mother used to wear provided a nostalgic note at the final showing of Florence's autumn-winter collections.

Clara Centinoro of Rome took her inspiration from the 1920-30 period. Fringes shimmered on cocktail dresses; fox abounded on coat collars and at bunches of formal dresses; sweeping feathers were a must for cocktail hats.

Centinoro was one of three new Italian designers to display their collections on the fashion stage of the Pitti Palace grand ballroom.

Both she and Sarah of Naples went in strongly for felines.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

TAKE A TIP FROM BABY. Just when the peak season for skin irritations arrives, baby's beauty box offers grown-up lovelies a remedy. It is a new type of medicated powder, designed to keep baby rash free and found effective for adults.

Dusted on the body after bathing, it staves off irritations from heat, clothing friction and bacteria. Or it will help clear up areas already affected by prickly heat and clothing chafe. Due to a gentle combination of two antiseptics and two moisture-absorbing agents, powdering eases even super-sensitive skins.

For 50 ways to look lovelier, send for my leaflet, "Instant Beauty Tips." It shows you how to overcome such annoyances as chipped polish, ragged lipstick, straggly hair, and even stuck zippers; also, how to create glamor ellipses with make-up and accessories. All in the wink of an eyelash! For your copy, write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin.

Belts Drop To Knees

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — At least two Italian designers relied heavily on belts but couldn't agree on where to put them. Guidi preferred belts placed in the neighborhood of the knees. Gregoriana insisted on high belts, moulding the waistline.

The high belts that distinguished Gregoriana's line were inspired by the Old ash of traditional Japanese costumes. She also showed coats, suits and dresses which wrap to one side — kimono fashion.

In Guidi's collection, the "waistline" reaches its lowest point after dark. A black silk cocktail dress is belted at the knee, with a flounce of pleats below the belt.

His suits were belted below the natural waistline.

TOMORROW YOU'LL WEAR — fancy metal on your bag. A handsome travel bag, in brown calf, has over-arm handles affixed to the sides of the bag by fanciful dolphins in gold-plated bronze.

To make you feel especially feminine YARDLEY fragrances... of course

Which of these lovely, lingering scents is for you? The vibrant sophistication of Bend Street? Delicately exotic Lotus? Perhaps it's April Violets, rain-sweet and incurably romantic. Or have you tried exciting new Freesia? Not an easy choice to make—but a delightful one. These toilet waters and colognes from $1.35.

Vancouver Home For Newlyweds

Baskets of pink and white gladioli were placed in St. Michael's and All Angels' Church for the wedding of Margaret Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Houghton, Royal Vancouver, and Mr. Stafford Edward Russell, Vancouver, and of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell, well known in England. Rev. J. Rogers performed the ceremony.

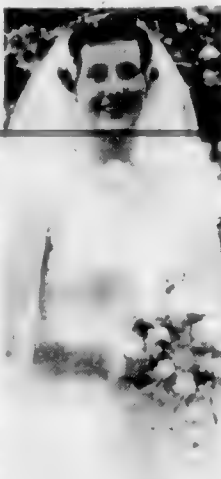

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her full-skirted, ballerina-length gown, fashioned with fitted bodice of rosepoint lace and misty nylon skirt edged with scallops of rosepoint. A lace Juliet cap held her finger-tip net veil and she carried white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. D. L. Dockstader, matron of honor and Mrs. J. B. Peat, bridesmatron, wore identical dresses of pink brocade with portrait necklines. They carried pink carnations and pink daisies and had pink daisies in their hair.

Mr. Malcolm Bonsor was best man and Mr. D. L. Dockstader showed guests to the press.

A reception followed in the garden at the home of the bride's parents. An herbaceous lace cloth covered the brides' table, which was centered with a pink and white wedding cake flanked by bouquets of pink and white gladioli. Rev. D. B. Houghton proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving for a honeymoon at Lake Louise and Emerald Lake the bride traveled in an aqua linen suit, large white picture hat, white accessories and gar-

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. L. Saunders and daughter, Elaine, Edmonton; Mrs. E. A. Hudson, Hope, B.C.; Mrs. W. A. Dook, Stouffville, Miss Leslie Stacey, Mrs. D. Egell, Mrs. Carleton, and Miss Olive Carleton, Vancouver, and Miss J. Marshall, San Diego, California.

PERSONAL MENTION

Col. and Mrs. R. L. Mitchell, Ten Mile Point, will leave Victoria on Wednesday on a trip that will take them away until after Christmas. ## Wed at Cathedral

Newlyweds Travel to Banff

Returning next week from a honeymoon in Banff and Calgary are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morley Wybert, principals at a wedding ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral recently.

Mrs. Wybert is the former Angela Holmes, Vancouver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Vashersse. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bowman.

Rev. H. Hubbard officiated at the double ring ceremony at which Mr. Vashersse gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of white nylon and lace, with full floor-length skirt and long-sleeved, lace jacket. Her matching headpiece was trimmed with pearls and sequins and she wore the groom's gift of pearls.

Her husband's diamond ring had belonged to her grandmother. A bouquet of yellow gladioli and stephanotis completed her lovely ensemble.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Eleanor Conway wore coral and white nylon with headpiece and coral net. She carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli and stephanotis. Bridesmaid Miss Faith Lennat was in a cream duster coat, turquoise tulle lace and net, with yellow headpiece and a coral corsage.

Nursemaids Get Blame For Vulgarity

The English nursemaids who rock the royal cradles of Europe get the blame for the "vulgar minds of European royalty," according to writer Charles Graves in his new book, Riviera Royalty.

"Have yourselves a good time, fellows — today's my day to deep clean with 'Lysol'."

The lady knows the boost "Lysol" adds to any cleaning solution. With no extra work, "Lysol" gets rid of mess, muss, odor... the dirt you see and can't see. "Lysol" Deep-cleans! Deodorizes! Disinfects! Because "Lysol" kills the source of odors, it helps keep things sweet—for days! Use "Lysol" regularly.

Let Lysol do the dirty work

Film Sets Off Lingerie Boom

TOKYO (WNS) — Japanese women have "discovered" lingerie and their menfolk are delighted.

So, too, is the undergarment industry which is rapidly becoming one of the nation's most promising businesses.

The "lingerie boom" stems largely from the recent screening of "The Seven Year Itch," starring Marilyn Monroe.

It was not as much the story as Miss Monroe's acting, that attracted Japanese women to the picture. It was the scene in which Miss Monroe finds relief from the summer's heat by allowing the updraft from a subway air grate to billow her skirts, revealing her teenie color undies.

Color-sensitive Japanese women quickly divided colored lingerie into two major categories: 1. "Sex appeal" hues such as pink, lavender, pale blue, peach and black; 2. "Prudish" colors such as green, grey and brown.

Long accustomed to regard undergarments as strictly functional, Japanese women at first had no idea of the importance of size and model for correct fit and flattering fit.

They've learned quickly how even so, certain fundamental changes in design have had to be made to adjust to Japanese customs. The West ern-style girdle, for example, is not too practical for a house wife in the chairless Japanese home who sits on her heels.

Couple Rewed After 50 Years

After their divorce in 1907, Chester and Daisy Inskeep lived apart and didn't see each other until recently in London. Last month, deciding to let bygones be bygones, they were rewed. Chester is 80 and Daisy, 82.

Play It Safe

By M. A. CHESNUT, PH.D.

There is a lot of talk about the danger of playing it safe. But is it really so dangerous?

It is a common mistake to think that playing it safe is a sign of weakness. In fact, it is a sign of wisdom.
